SINGITA SPLENDOR

Scattered amongst towering euphorbia trees, Singita Lebombo Lodge rests on a forested cliffside, gently presiding over the N’wanetsi River in Kruger National Park. Here, 15 nested suites shrouded in privacy await discerning safari enthusiasts with a penchant for bold bushveld luxury. Outside, a swath of white linen cocoons a bed under the stars for adventure seekers, while inside, meditative spaces offer respite after a day of safari splendor. Days can be whiled away in Lebombo’s tranquil wellness area before drifting between the pools, wine studio, library, rooftop terrace, boutique and gallery space. The newly opened art gallery at Singita Lebombo Lodge showcases emerging artists from Southern Africa, with a portion of proceeds donated to Singita

Lowveld Trust for enterprise development projects. Setting out on daily sunrise and sunset game drives with specialist trackers and guides reveal close encounters and breathtaking moments in nature, further immersing guests into the wilds of Africa. Those willing, a walking safari to see South Africa’s treasured white rhino offers a transformative experience with a creature close to extinction. Nights at Lebombo Lodge are starlit spectacles, delighting epicures with fine dining, while cultural evenings in the boma echo the spirit of Africa with traditional singing and dancing by the fire. In the sanctuary of Singita’s private concession, where the wildlife and birdlife are plenteous, falling asleep to the sound of lions truly is the hallmark of paradise. singita.com
